Introducing Relationshape

Relationshape emerged from a shared desire of the authors to shape relationships in a way that focuses on the individual needs and desires of everyone involved, as independently as possible from any outside norms or hierarchies, while acknowledging that relationships are always subject to change as they evolve. These ideas are the foundation of our use and understanding of the term relationship anarchy.

In order to live in agreement with these values, we must figure out and clearly communicate the overlaps and potential conflicts in our understanding of a relationship. As there are so many aspects that can be relevant to forming consensual connections, we sought helpful communication tools to help us identify and define the scope of our relationships. Moreover, we wanted a framework that would motivate us to make a habit of regularly updating our agreements and reflecting on the changes in perception.

The following questionnaire was what we came up with and what we now call Relationshape. It was inspired by Andie Nordgren's manifesto, the Smorgasbord of relationship anarchy (Lyrica Lawrence and Heather Orr, Version 5, updated by Maxx Hill 2019) and similar tools built on collective experiences of polyamorists and relationship anarchists. Further sources, for example, include the books Polysecure and Polymise by Jessica Fern, More than Two by Eve Rickert and Franklin Veaux, and countless other resources we have encountered over time. We believe Relationshape will be most useful to people who are already actively working towards understanding themselves and their relationships better, and who are in the process of re-thinking the relationship norms and hierarchies prescribed to us by society.

The format is a work in progress. For example, the suggested default scale from "Need" to "No" does not apply well to all aspects, and the table format insinuates linearity and a hierarchy between the different categories (which is not what we want to promote, on the contrary). Additionally, the questionnaire format can perhaps seem a bit boring, and going through it in all length and detail in our experience takes a lot of time, introspection and communication. However, later adjustments get much easier once the tool becomes familiar. We are very pragmatic in this respect and don't interpret filling out a questionnaire as dry, but as an inspiring and important step towards laying a transparent basis for our relationships.

We particularly include aspects that specifically apply to non-monogamous and queer relationships, as these can be especially hard to navigate, with people looking for resources and guidance outside the norm. However, we are not immune to our own lifelong conditioning and exposure to these norms, which we have internalized and are still unlearning. Additionally, we are biased by our own identities and privileges, even though we constantly work on improving our awareness and allyship. Given this, and the intricacy of the topic, you are likely to encounter some contradictions, ambiguity, things you disagree with or that don't align with your lived reality, or things that are central to your experience, but that are not reflected in the tool. We are open to constructive criticism and feedback to help us improve, but at the same time believe there can never be a one-size-fits-all. We think the best way possible is for everyone to select from the tool whatever they feel applies to them, and then generously edit, add, delete and shuffle to make it fit your needs! We encourage the use of Relationshape for any kind of relationships, be they romantic, platonic, kinky, sexual, familial, etc. You do not have to consider yourself a relationship anarchist and/or non-monogamist to use the tool.

We hope that Relationshape can help capture the fluidity and uniqueness of each relationship and support people to form consensual bonds in the way that suits them. As the concept emerged from our personal experience and preferences, we emphasize that Relationshape will not be perfect for everyone. It is always a work in progress, and we are open for adjustments as we keep learning. Already at this point we thank all the test users who have provided us with valuable inputs and feedback, and the many helpful discussions with community members.

Creators: Anne Lüscher (she/they), Benjamin Frey (him/his)

Contact for feedback and questions: relationshape@protonmail.com

How to use Relationshape

The questionnaire is ordered in a way that encourages a certain structure in the answers by giving predefined options to enable consistency. For this first version we decided on a simple table format for reasons of simplicity and editability, allowing users to customize their categories and list items as well as their rating system. Unfortunately, the linear form of a table inevitably creates an order between the categories. However, this is only due to the format, and we do absolutely not suggest filling the form "from the beginning" or in the order in which the categories show up, and we certainly do not imply a hierarchy by the grouping within the table.

In the following we share our thoughts behind the structure we chose and the way we have been using the questionnaire, knowing that there are many other options to go about this.

First of all, we suggest using a separate form for each person/relationship. For example, if you are part of a fixed group of friends, or in a triad relationship, you would fill in one form with each of the other members. We recommend working with printouts.

In terms of structure, Relationshape is sectioned in many different segments that focus on various (potential) aspects of a relationship and that can easily be answered separately. Each section then contains a number of items that can be evaluated in terms of their significance or status within the relationship in question. The rating is quite granular, with seven increments from 'No' (I don't want this/don't agree to this) to 'Need' (this is of highest importance to me; if this cannot be fulfilled, I may want to re-consider the type of relationship and my boundaries).

To give an answer, the respective box can be marked with a cross or tick. For items where something can be done actively or passively, there is the option to differentiate the answer between 'active' and 'passive' and/or 'giving' and 'receiving'. Example: If I like giving massages, but not receiving them, I may write the letter 'G' in the box belonging to 'want/like' and the letter 'R' in the box 'No'. For the answer maybe/hopefully in the future a difference between 'maybe' and 'hopefully' can be marked by putting an 'M' or 'H', but this is again optional.

Before starting, choose a setting where you can feel comfortable and focused. Be aware that this process takes time and may bring up emotions, triggers and conflicts, old and new. Be mindful of your resources, take your time, plan for breaks and think about how you want to handle challenging situations (together and/or individually) ahead in time. Try to be grateful for your counterpart's honesty and authenticity even in difficult moments and accept each other's answers in good faith and with generosity. If you are unsure how to interpret their answer, ask them to clarify before jumping to any conclusions.

The mode we suggest as a starting point is the following:

- 1. Read the entire questionnaire without filling it out yet, ideally together with the other person so you are able to directly communicate.
- 2. Together, select the categories you think apply to your relationship and that you would like to fill out. Edit them as needed, add or remove items as per your preference. Probably this already initiates some discussions.
- 3. Calibrate your interpretations of the answer options, discuss what the implications of the terms are for you. The goal is that you have a common and nuanced understanding of the scale from "need" to "no". You can adjust/re-name the scale as per your needs.
- 4. Take enough time to fill out the questionnaire separately in order not to be influenced by the other person's views. This can be split up by category and completed in multiple sessions, e.g. filling out the "friendship" section, then move on to discussion, then go back to another section, and so on. Depending on your preference, completing the form can happen in the same room at the same time, or entirely independent. However, clarifying the meaning of any ambiguous term to you/each other before answering is an essential part of the process.

- 5. Share your answers with each other. We find it helpful to write the other person's answers into our own questionnaire with a different colour, and afterwards highlight points of strong agreement and discrepancy, indicating potential points of discussion and compromise.
- 6. Go through the answers, share your feelings with each other. If you have identified points of disagreement, talk about the implications, and how this may affect you in the presence or future. If unsure, ask each other to elaborate what a certain answer means in order to avoid misalignment or misunderstandings. This is another chance to clarify terms if you haven't done so before and ask each other how you interpret and express them. Especially for broad terms such as "commitment" it is important to have a mutual understanding what this means for you, what you expect and how you express it to each other.
- 7. Take the new insights you have gained into your relationship/relationshape practice and let it inspire you to continuously form agreements and better understanding of each other.
- 8. Go over the questionnaire in regular intervals (e.g. once every six months) and communicate to each other what has or hasn't changed, how your needs and perception of the relationship have developed, and what you think the implications are. Maybe you observe some trends over time and identify new aspects that matter to you.
- 9. Over time, modify your practice, add to the form and find your own way of using Relationshape the way that works best for you.
- 10. Bonus Point: If you like, recommend Relationshape to your network and provide us with feedback so we can continuously improve the tool. We are happy to receive fan mail and constructive criticism alike. As Relationshape is a work in progress we rely on the community to learn more about experiences we have not yet considered, and to get a better idea of what works best for most people.

Enjoy the process!

Filled out by:	First walkthrough:	Second walkthrough:	Third walkthrough:

General connection practices
Item	Need	Hell, yes!	Want/ like	Open to it	Not really	Hopefully /maybe in future	No
Shared activities/interests
Intellectual/philosophical discussions
Political discussions
Sharing ideas
Sharing humor
Playfulness Companionship Understanding
Talking about everyday things
Gift-giving

Spending time together
Going on dates
Spend time with (mutual) friends
Go to concerts, museums, plays etc:
Do sports together, e.g.:
Watch movies
Watch TV-Shows
Play video games
Read books
Listen to podcasts/music together
Share/send art, music, poetry, memes
Spend time in nature
Eat out
Learning sth new together, e.g.:
Co-working
Sparring/martial arts
Dance
Substances

Creative (together)
Visual art
Craft, e.g.:
Music
Photography
Comedy
Writing/poetry
Painting/drawing
Dance
Theatre

Mutual socal circles
	Mutua	Mutual socal c	Mutual socal circles	Mutual socal circles	Mutual socal circles	Mutual socal circles

(1	Professional)	Collaboratio	n
Teach, e.g.:
Mutual projects, e.g.:
Organize events, e.g.:
Activism, e.g.:
Found a business, e.g.:
	Belief and	d religion
Shared ritual/prayer
Shared beliefs
Discussions Discussions	+
Shared religious institution(s)	+
Tolerance for other beliefs
Tolerance for other benefit
	Emotiona	1 intimacy
Being vulnerable
Mutual trust
Openness
Finding mutual communication style and tone
Being interested in each other's inner life
Sharing and communicating
Mutual respect
Quarrelling
Call each other out on issues
Talk about mental health
Constructive criticism for things not concerning the relationship
Talking about fears
Radical honesty	† †
Reflect conflict patterns	† †
 	† †
	+ + -		-

Physical intimacy (commonly not labelled as "sexual") ¹
Dance
Cuddles
Hugs
Pets
Massage Handholding
Nudity
Kissing
Body contact
Co-sleeping

Sexual practices and kinks (no	tation: G for	giving, R for	r receivin	g, x for b	oth) ²
Orgasms
Genital touching
Oral sex
Anal stimulation (e.g. rimming)
Vaginal penetration (with:
Anal penetration (with:
Discovering (together)
Virtual sex
Dom/sub dynamic
Orgasm Control
Bondage
Age play
Foot fetish
Role play
Voyeurism
S/M
Golden Shower
Impact play
Breath play
Exhibitionism
Pet play
Rubber, lax or leather

¹ What is or is not perceived sexual is of course individual and contextual and can be a separate discussion. However, physical and sexual acts are still listed as two separate categories, as nonsexual physical closeness is often also present in relationships where there is no sexual dynamic.

² This list is in no means meant to be complete and should, obviously, not be the only framework of consent you establish! However, we wanted to include a category of practices commonly seen as "sexual acts", since it is an important part of many relationships. The practices were compiled based on various online lists of common practices and "kinks", as well as user feedback.

Use toys together
e.g.: Uniforms
Group Sex
Swinging
Playfight
Erotic massages
Sex-positive events
Outdoor Sex
Safeword:
Chemsex
CBT Facesitting
Sensation play
Use dating app(s) together
Watch porn together, preferences:
1 0 /1
Others:
Caregiving (nota	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both) tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness)	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness,	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability)	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness,	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability)	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability)	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability)	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability)	tion: G fo	r giving, I	R for receiv	ing, x for	both)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability) Support with addiction
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability)
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability) Support with addiction Emotional Support (
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability) Support with addiction Emotional Support (Listening
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability) Support with addiction Emotional Support (Listening Empathy
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability) Support with addiction Emotional Support (Listening Empathy Ask for advice
Physical (e.g. sickness) Emotional Reliability Emergencies End of life Support in fear/phobias Trauma awareness and support Longterm care (e.g. chronic illness, disability) Support with addiction Emotional Support (Listening Empathy

in life
Confidante
Accountability partners/body doubling

Romantic
Cultivating uniqueness
Emotional attraction
"Being in love"
Limerence/swooning over each other
Expressing affection
Verbalizing romantic feelings
Preferred wording(s):

Partner- and companionship
Shared goals/values ³
Shared understanding of politics/ethics/decision-making ³
Find/keep routines
Commitment
Embrace change in and with each other
Mutual growth
Long-term planning
Be involved in each other's important life decisions
Share lifestyle choices
Embrace differences

³ Perhaps, in a separate discussion, reflect on what these are

	Exc	lusivity
Sexual
Emotional/romantic
Social (e.g. only partner present in social circle)
Structural (e.g. nesting)
Flexibility/Changeability of Concepts or Structures
	I	L egal
Power of attorney Marriage
Civil partnership
Business partners
Emergency contact
Inheritance/included in will
	Power 1	Hierarchies
Boss – employee
Sponsor – sponsee
Teacher – student Mentor – guide

asymmetries in affectedness) ⁴
Racism	Ableism	Sexism	Classism
Skills	(Formal) education	Influence, social/political power	Citizenship
Financial/Possession	Sexual/romantic orientation	Queer-/Transphobia	Income
Lookism	Ageism	Colorism	Sizeism/Fatphobia
Nativism	Colonialism	Physical strength	Size/quality of social circle
Available free time	Relationship experience (within lived model)	Trauma biography/resilience	Age gap/life experience
Physical health impairments	Mental health issues

	F	inancial
				T
Shared responsibilities, e.g.:
Property, e.g.:
Support in need
Regular payments
Shared accounts
Ethical spending
Expensive lifestyle
Frugal lifestyle
Similar spending habits
Share living costs
Financial security
Shared retirement funds
Separate finances

⁴ The terms are shuffled and no hierarchy/order is implied

	D	omestic
Routines, e.g.:
Chores, e.g.:
Grores, eig.
Sharing a home
Sharing a sleeping space
Cooking together
Sharing meals
Shared preferences
(cleanliness/tidiness etc.)
		•

Planning	Planning, scheduling, time management
Quality time together, frequency:
Reserved time slots, when:
Regular relationship check-ins,
frequency:
Relationshape interval:
Spontaneity
Planning of time together in advance
Shared calendar
				-

				Family planning, contraception ⁵ (notation: G for giving, R for receiving, x for both)
Condom	TOT STVIII	5, 1011	ceciving, x
Other barrier(s):
Hormonal:
Implant:
Surgical:
Cycle tracking/natural Morning after pill/emergency contraception
Other contraception:
No contraception
Abortion
Discuss behavior involving other partners
Become (co-)parents
Have genetically related child(ren)
Adoption
Becoming foster parents
Support each other with children from other partners

⁵ Note that sexual health/safer sex is a separate category

S	afer sex a	and sexu	al health
STI testing
Schedule/frequency:
Who gets tested:
What gets tested:
Protected sexual practices in this relationship, means of protection: Oral: Anal: Vaginal: Other practices/means of protection:
Protected sexual practices with other partners: Vaginal Oral Anal Other practices/means of protection/specifications:
HPV vaccination Me: You:
PrEP Me: You:

Co-Caregivers
Plants Animals Children
Parents
Other people:

	Holid	ays toge	ther
Taking /alagaing time a CC to a share	1 1			T
Taking/planning time off together
(Long) weekends
Day trips
Week(s)
Long-term travel/sabbatical
Just the two of us
With friends, who:
With family, who:
With metamour(s), who:
In organized groups, e.g.:
A.1 1
Abroad
At home
City trips
Cultural travel
Festival/Retreat
Camping/Nature
Road trip
Beach
Active/Adventure
Cruise
Luxury
Wellness
By (night)train
By bike
By bus
By car
By plane
By ship

No Label Colleague Friend Partner Lover Affair Spouse
Friend Partner Lover Affair
Friend Partner Lover Affair
Partner Lover Affair
Affair
Spouse
Spouse
Datemate
Playpartner
Flatmate
Nesting Partner
Sugarmama/Sugardaddy
Other:
	Displays of af	fection
Events
Friends Family
Work
Social Media
In public
Means and frequency of communication	on
In-person, frequency:
Phone, frequency:
Voice Messages, frequency:
Text, frequency:
Written, frequency:
Other preferences:

Relationship attachment
Non-attachment-oriented
Attachment-oriented
Safe haven
Secure base
Comfort with ambiguity

	(Non-) mon	ogamy Labels
Monogamous
Monogam-ish Swinging
Polyfidelitous
Hierarchical polyamory
Group relationship
Egalitarian Polyamory
Solo polyamory
Free/honest relationship
Relationship anarchy
Fluid
Comet Relationship
None Single Other:

Cultivating (other) relationships/sexual/ romantic interactions
Dating own gender
Me:
You:
Dating other genders
Me:
You: Sexual
Me:
You: Romantic
Me:
You:
Attachment-oriented
Me:
You:
Non-attachment-oriented
Me:
You:
Short-term:
Me:
You:
Long-term
Me:
You:
'One-night stand'
Me:
You:
Kink-focused relationship
Me:
You:
Dating mutual friends/acquaintances
Me:
You:
(Solo) use of dating apps
Me:
You:
Check-in about new relationships before entering
Me:
You:
Discuss space/time allotted to different relationships, point of polysaturation
Discuss asymmetries and (inter)dependence dynamics
Reflect on jealousy together
Everything goes

Me:
Me: You:
None Me: You:
Me:
You:
Veto power
Hierarchical structures
		•		•

Communication about other intimate relationships (specify limitations if appl.)
Don't ask, don't tell Me: You:
Casually keep up to date about other relationships, (me/you, etc.):
Share intimate details about other relationships, (me, you, etc.):
Share details of this relationship to metamours – (me/you, etc.):
Share experiences of being close (e.g. pictures of kissing) Me: You:

Casual irregular meetings with metamour(s): together alone Cultivate regular meetings with metamour(s): together alone Cultivate regular meetings with together alone Cultivate regular meetings with alone Cultivate regular meetings with metamour(s)
together
alone
Cultivate/prioritize "getting along"
between metamour(s)
Cultivate friendship/deeper platonic relationship between metamours
Kitchen table polyamory
Limitations:
Intimate interactions between metamours:
together
alone
Meeting in public spaces as a polycule
Limitations:
Introduce metamour(s) to own social circle
Limitations:

⁶ Metamour, usually refers to a partner's partner. The contact to metamours is often a point of discussion and negotiation in non-monogamous romantic relationships, which is why this category is its own. However, depending on your relationship model, similar considerations could also apply to other labels or other people – e.g. your partner's close platonic companion, a specific family member, etc. Adjust/add as needed.

Unique elements for this relationship (wishes, appreciation)
Impor	Important boundaries & limitations
О	ther thin	gs of im	portance
Wishes, Ambitions for the Future:
,								